This page covers Legendary Pokemon obtainable in Pokemon Ultra Sun and Ultra Moon and Sun and Moon. Sun and Moon introduced another set of Legendary Pokemon to the ever expanding universe of Pokemon. Pokemon Ultra Sun and Ultra Moon Jump to Legendary Pokemon in Ultra Sun and Ultra Moon to see Legendary Pokemon exclusive to the Ultra versions. advertisementLunala, Solgaleo, Zygarde, and Necrozma are obtained differently in Ultra Sun/Moon than in Sun/Moon. Look for the red boxes to see how.All of the above Legendary Pokemon are available in all copies of this generation of the Pokemon games: Sun, Moon, Ultra Sun, and Ultra Moon. Necrozma #800 Ten Carat Hill In Ultra Sun and Ultra Moon, Necrozma is encountered at the Altar of the Moone/Sun on Poni Island first, but is later catchable at Mount Lanakila when you're on your way to the Pokemon League. It will be Lv. 65 when encountered in its catchable state. While it at first looks to be one of the Ultra Beasts, Necrozma is actually considered a legendary Pokemon. After you finished catching all the Pokemon in Ultra Beasts side quest, speak with Looker at the motel on Route 8 and he'll say that he saw a black Pokemon flying over Melemele Island. Time to go see for yourself. Head over to Ten Carat Hill on Melemele Island and go all the way to the grassy canyon area. Rummage through the tall grass until you finally find Necrozma! advertisementSolgaleo #791 Altar of the Sunne In Ultra Sun, Solgaleo can be captured after the Elite Four on Mahalo Trail outside of Iki Town on Melemele Island. In Pokemon Ultra Moon, you must first capture Cosmog and evolve it. This legendary is encountered towards the end of the main story. Once you reach the Altar of the Sunne and start activating the portal, Cosmoem will evolve into either Solgaleo (Sun version) or Lunala (Moon version). You will then battle the legendary beast! You are required to capture it, so don't be worried about missing this one! Solgaleo is the legendary "Sunne Pokemon" featured on the Pokemon Sun box art. Solgaleo can take a different form called the Radiant Sun phase, entered when it releases its mighty power. It's ability is Full Metal Body. Lunala #791 Altar of the Monne In Ultra Moon, Lunala can be captured after the Elite Four on Mahalo Trail outside of Iki Town on Melemele Island. In Pokemon Ultra Sun, you must first capture Cosmog and evolve it. This legendary is encountered towards the end of the main story. Once you reach the Altar of the Moone and start activating the portal, Cosmoem will evolve into either Solgaleo (Sun version) or Lunala (Moon version). You will then battle the legendary beast! You are required to capture it, so don't be worried about missing this one! Lunala is the legendary "Moone Pokemon" featured on the Pokemon Moon boxart. Lunala can take a different form called the Full Moon phase, entered when it releases its mighty power. It's ability is Shadow Shield. Cosmog #789 Lake of the Moone/Sunne*Getting Cosmog is actually a very easy thing to do, but it may be a bit confusing at first. Once you've completed the main game and defeated the Elite Four, make sure you have your cover legendary (either Solgaleo or Lunala) in your party, then head over to the Altar of the Moone/Sunne on Poni Island. Enter the portal to find yourself in an alternate dimension where it'll be the opposite time of day. Cool! From there, head over to the Lake of the Moone/Sunne On Ula'ula Island where your cover legendary will summon the other cover legendary. This will make Cosmog appear. Interact with it to add it to your party, no battling needed! This Cosmog will evolve into Lunala in Sun and Ultra Sun, and Solgaleo in Moon and Ultra Moon. Cosmog, the "Nebula Pokemon," is extremely rare and was once known only by the kings of Alola. Now, the Aether Foundation is researching this Pokemon. Because of its incredible curiosity and tendency to try to make quick friends, it often puts itself in danger. When light falls on Cosmog, it absorbs it and grows. Cosmoem #790 Evolve Cosmog*Once you get your hands on a Cosmog, level it up so that it reaches Level 43, then you'll be able to evolve it into Cosmoem. Once Cosmoem reaches Level 53, it'll evolve into Solgaleo if you're playing on Sun and Lunala if you're playing on Moon. Zygarde #718 Route 16 In Ultra Sun or Ultra Moon, simply head to Resolution Cave on Poni Island to find Zygarde in its 50% form. Head to the Aether House on Route 16 to get its Complete Form.Scattered about the region of Alola are 95 Zygarde Cells and 5 Zygarde Cores. Collect them as you find them, then head over to Route 16 and head inside the Aether station. There you can deposit your cells and cores to create the different forms of Zygarde. 10% Form50% Form*Complete Form*Each Zygarde core that you collect will allow your Zygarde to learn a specific move. It can learn the following moves: Extreme Speed*Thousand Arrows*Dragon Dance*Thousand Waves*Core Enforcer*Use our Zygarde Cell and Core Locations Guide to find all the cells and cores! Tapu Koko #785 Ruins of Conflict*After you complete the main story, the game will ask you if you want to go check up on Tapu Koko. With the bridge fixed, enter the Ruins of Conflict where you'll get to face off with Tapu Koko. Whether you catch it or not, you'll be rewarded with Tapunium Z. If you defeat it, the legendary will reappear after re-doing the Pokemon League. Tapu Koko, the "Land Spirit Pokemon," is the guardian deity of Melemele Island. It's able to enter a different form when it encloses itself in the shells on its arms. It stores up electricity when in this stance. It's ability is Electric Surge. Tapu Lele #786 Ruins of Life*Once you've completed the main story, return to the Ruins of Life on Akala Island and interact with pedestal to summon Tapu Lele! The ruins can be found near the Akala Outskirts. Tapu Lele, a Land Spirit Pokemon, can heal others by scattering its scales. Its said to have once ended a war. However, too many scales could be dangerous. Tapu Lele unmerovingly seems to ignore this possible negative effect. Tapu Lele's Psychic Surge boosts the power of Psychic-type moves used by Pokemon on the ground and prevents Psychic-type Pokemon from being hit by priority moves. Tapu Bulu #787 Ruins of Abundance*Once you've completed the main story, return to the Ruins of Abundance on Ula'ula Island and interact with pedestal to summon Tapu Bulu! To reach the Ruins of Abundance, enter Haina Desert and go north one screen, then east, then north, then east again. Go back west, then north again to find the ruins. Tapu Bulu is able to change the shape of vegetation, including its own wooden horns. It seems docile and doesn't like inciting necessary fights, but will show no mercy when facing those of evil intentions. Tapu Bulu's ability, Grassy Surge, boosts the power of Grass-type moves used by Pokemon on the ground and heals them slightly each turn. Tapu Fini #788 Ruins of Hope*Once you've completed the main story, return to the Ruins of Hope on Poni Island and interact with pedestal to summon Tapu Fini! The ruins can be found near the Poni Breaker Coast. When battling, keep in mind that Tapu Fini will use Aqua Ring and heal each turn. Tapu Fini can purify both mind and body with its special water, but hides itself in a thick fog to prevent just anyone from seeking its aid. If someone without pure intention enters its mist, it will not reveal itself to them. Tapu Fini's ability, Misty Surge, halves damage from Dragon-type moves and prevents Pokemon from being afflicted with status conditions or confusion. Magearna #801 Event Pokemon*Magearna is the mythical "Artificial Pokemon" who can transform itself into a Pokeball. This Pokemon is only obtainable through the new QR Scanner function. Scan in the QR code below then visit the Antique Store in the Hau'oli City Shopping Mall to receive Magearna. Do note that you need to complete the main game first! Thankfully there is no expiration date on this QR code. North America Europe/Australia Marshadow #802 ???*Marshadow was obtainable through a previous Special Event in October, 2017, but no future events are planned as of now. Every Legendary Pokemon ever catchable naturally in a Pokemon game is catchable in Ultra Sun and Ultra Moon through Ultra Wormholes. Read more about how to find them, as well as Ultra Beasts on the Ultra Wormholes page.In order for the following Pokemon to appear in an Ultra Wormhole, certain Pokemon need to be present in your party. What to expect from the seventh generation of Pokémon games. You might be forgiven in thinking Pokémon Go was the only Pokémon game out in 2016 based on the colossal success it's had this summer, but there's a whole new generation of games on the way in the form of Pokémon Sun and Moon on the 3DS, arriving for the franchise's 20th anniversary. The seventh generation of Pokémon games introduces a new wave of creatures to find, catch and train - including some adorable new starters - a new map based on a real world location, and some neat new features for long-time fans to get very excited about. Arguably the most exciting new additions to any new generation of Pokémon are the starters, and Pokémon Sun and Moon delivers on the traditional fire / grass / water line-up with a few cute newcomers: Flying Grass type Rowlet Fire type Litten Water type Popplio Their first evolution and second evolution revealed, which we won't post directly here to prevent spoilers - but it might narrow down who you'll play come launch... One of the core differences between each generation's new pair of Pokémon games are their Legendaries, which are themed around their respective titles. Solgaleo and Lunala, exclusive to Pokémon Sun and Moon, respectively. They are: Solgaleo is a Psychic / Steel type, with a powerful Sunsteel Strike move and Full Metal Body ability. It can transform into the Radiant Sun phase. Lunala is a Psychic / Ghost type, with a powerful Moongiest Beam and Shadow Shield ability. It can transform into the Full Moon phase. Mythical Pokémon Magearna.Based on previous games, both these Legendaries expect them to be available as part of a story-related event in the late game, and that the only way to add the opposing Legendary to your Pokédex will be via trading - so have a friend who will own the other edition at hand. As well as this pair, we already know about the game's mythical Pokémon - think along the lines of Mew and Celebi - which is Magearna, a man-made Steel / Fairy type created over 500 years ago. Expect to get your hands on this via a special event outside of the game at some point post-release through the game's new QR code system (see the 'Other new features' section for more details). Outside of the one-of-a-kind creatures you receive through special events, there's set to be plenty of others you'll find out in the wild as part of this generation's update. The total number has yet to be confirmed, but based on previous instalments, could range between 70 and 150, bringing the Pokedex number to under 800. Highlights include: Exeggutor's towering Alola form. While not technically new Pokédex entries, a number of classic creatures have been given new 'Alola' forms, turning Exeggutor into a towering Grass / Dragon-Type palm tree, Dark Rattata and Raticate (which turned after being hunted on the island), and icy versions of Vulpix, Ninetales, Sandshrew and Sandslash. Fans of Pikachu evolution Raichu will be pleased with a form that can now surf and wear hats. A bear named Kiteruguma and a Ghost / Fairy type named Mimikyu that hides inside a ropey-looking Pikachu disguise. There are some rather bizarre designs, from a big-lipped fish (Bruxish), a tiny gnat (Cutiefly) to a Pikachu-looking mouse (Togedemaru). A bird named Oricorio, which has a unique style that changes Type according to the island it's currently situated - from Fire to Electric, Psychic and Ghost - with a 'Revelation Dance' move that changes Type too. Amusingly, there's also Gumshoos, and is the evolution of mongoose-style Pokémon Yungoos, which some claim looks like Donald Trump... Several other new additions include: Here's Type: Null, a brand new Normal-type Pokémon with classical warrior-style armour. It was synthetically created, like Mewtwo. Next up is Jangmo-o, a dragon-type. Pokémon Sun and Moon new setting, new Professor and characters Pokémon Sun and Moon are set in the region of Alola, which is loosely based on the islands of Hawaii - so expect plenty of beaches, palm trees and sunny climes as you run around catching creatures. Professor Kukui is your new guide for this generation, a bare-chested, shades-wearing character who will likely be the one to offer up your starter Pokémon and provide a helping hand throughout your journey. He's also joined by Professor Oak's cousin, Samson Oak, who appears to discuss different forms of known animals. Other new characters include Professor Kukui's "mysterious" assistant Lillie, and a series of Trial Champions and Kahuna that you'll encounter on each island; Mallow is Grass-based, Lana is Water, Sophocles is Electric and Kiawe is Fire. Complete their challenges - ranging from battling, finding items or completing tests of knowledge - and you'll then face powerful 'Totem Pokémon' who can call on ally Pokémon to help. There is also the The Aether Foundation - the 'good' team which rivals the bad Team Skull - of which Lusamine is president. Finally, you can also expect some familiar faces from the very first Pokémon game. No spoilers here, but click the prior link to see who you'll be bumping into... Playing Pokémon Go? Check out our Pokémon Go guide, tips, tricks and cheats hub to get the most out of finding, catching and leveling up. Other new features: Battle Royale, QR codes and Hyper Training One of the biggest reveals during E3 was the Battle Royale mode, where four players compete at once in a free-for-all scrap where the winner is whoever has the most Pokémon surviving by the end. While it sounds chaotic, strategy will lie in predicting who will attack who next in order to pick off the right players to claim the top spot. Pokémon Sun and Moon will introduce the ability to scan QR codes, allowing you to register Pokémon data to your Pokedex, adding its habitat data so you can search them out. As well as being released through special events, you can also create codes based on what you've caught to share with friends. There will be more customisation options than ever before for Trainers, including the ability to choose skin tone and hair style and colour. You can now employ a powerful Z-Move once per battle, which are not unlike a Summon in a Final Fantasy game. Each Type has a unique Z-Move; ones we know about include the electric Gigavolt Havoc, the grass Bloom Doom, fire Inferno Overdrive, and water Hydro Vortex. It's also how Mega Evolutions will appear in-game, too (which have been confirmed to be sidelined for this generation). Meanwhile, a real-life Z-Ring device which holds Z-Crystals will be released as a toy by Tomy. Use a Z-Move in the games and it will light up with the appropriate colour. For the first time HMs are looking to be removed from the game, in favour of Pokémon you can call upon to help you explore the environment, perhaps putting an end the need for a 'HM Slave'. Pokémon Sun and Moon's Pokédex features a Rotom, a type of Pokémon found in man-made electrical goods, meaning your 'dex will have more of a chatty personality and a map on the 3DS's bottom screen. This new entry will simplify the lengthy IV training mechanic of previous games with a feature named Hyper Training. This simplifies the complicated process, which involved breeding generations of a particular Pokémon species until you get a monster with the perfect stats, by taking a level 100 creature and increasing their stats to the maximum with rare bottle cap items that are traded with a new character named Mr Hyper. Meanwhile, owners of the 3DS Virtual Console editions of Pokémon Red, Blue and Yellow will be able to transfer the original 151 Pokémon to Sun and Moon via the Pokémon Bank app - perfect if you want to craft a team of Kanto-only Elite Four creatures. Note that the ability to transfer Pokémon via the Bank will be available in a future update. Pokémon can also be received from the sixth generation of games. It looks like Pokémon Sun and Moon has a nod to N64 outing Pokémon Snap - letting you enter first person view in certain places and snap a shot of nearby Pokémon. It looks like you will be judged on the quality of your photo, both in game and what looks to be online from other players, too. By gathering a series of collectibles - Zygarde Cells and Zygarde Cores - you can form what appears to be the 'Complete Forme' of legendary Pokémon Zygarde. Pokémon Sun and Moon are set 12 hours apart, and as such, events will happen at different times for each entry: Pokémon Sun and Moon release date and where to pre-order Pokémon Sun and Moon will be available exclusively on Nintendo 3DS from November 18 worldwide, and in more languages than ever; English, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Korean, Japanese, and Chinese (both Traditional and Simplified). In Europe, you can pre-order from Amazon UK (Pokémon Sun, Pokémon Moon) and GAME (Pokémon Sun, Pokémon Moon) and in North America, from Amazon US (Pokémon Sun, Pokémon Moon). In the meantime, you can read our hands-on impressions of the opening two hours and try a free downloadable demo from October 18, which will include a special version of Greninja - the Ash-Greninja from the Pokémon anime - as well as other items to then transfer into the full game upon release. Our Pokemon Sun and Moon demo guide can help you unlock everything you need to carry forward.
